Dear Dr. Agha,

It was very nice to meet you and I admire your tenacity and passion for this project. As things progress, I'd be willing to talk more about personally collaborating in specific areas with other Islamic scholars. In terms of JMIE participation, things must be more formalized before we can really talk about a role for the Institute. Most prominently, you would need a strong faculty leader and a core faculty group willing to advocate for the project.

I look forward to more discussions as your work evolves. Thank you again for the visit.
